<sup>4</sup> Ibid., "Fred was from the north of England and his last known address was Pilkington St. in Middlesbrough. It's possible, though, that he was born in Bradford where his mother married my grandfather, Daniel HILL in the year 1900. "

<sup>5</sup> Ibid., "Fred was an able body seaman working on the S.S. Dunluse Castle when he died from suffocation by accidental drowning. It is said that Fred had tobacco strapped to his body at the time. His body was found in a children's paddling pool at Southend, Essex, England. I believe it was the Thames in which he drowned and that his body had been in the water for about a month. For this reason, his body had to be put into a zinc lined coffin. In white letters, [U.C.M] Company was written on the blue jersey he was wearing. He was very heavily tattooed and identified by one of these tattoos, a rose, shamrock, and thistle with the word mother beneath it on his right forearm and by his 9 ct. gold keeper ring."
